SOCIETY, WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS

Bride-Elects Are Guests At Gay Round Of Parties

By Betty Norrick.

AS A WELCOME contrast to the sweltering days of the preceding week, this past week with the exception of Thursday, has been delightfully refreshing and comparatively cool. Despite this change in temperature, however, activities of the local social world are experiencing the annual summer lull which is occasioned following the Fourth of July. Now that the majority of socialites are either coming or going along their divergent vacation paths, or remaining at their summer retreats, activity in the way of parties and other entertainments have almost ceased. But, perhaps that is over-exaggerating the situation, for there have been several lovely affairs during the past week. Among these was the prettily appointed double shower at which Mrs. Claude Reith entertained Friday evening in honor of two recent popular brides, Mrs. John J. Carmichael, who was before her recent marriage Miss Sue Carmichael, and Mrs. Blaine Lisk, formerly Miss Barbara Price.

Another outstanding event was the uniquely arranged miscellaneous shower in honor of Mrs. Charles M. Shaw, formerly Miss Mary Elizabeth Kuhn, given by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Paul Kuhn. Also included in this series of events were the smartly appointed showers in honor of Miss Dolores Knotts, popular bride-elect, whose marriage to Richard Hunt will take place Friday, at the First Baptist Church. Miss Knotts is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Knotts of East Centennial avenue, and Mr. Hunt is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Webb Hunt of West North street. Miss Knotts has been honored during the past week by Miss Doris Rutherford and Miss Amy Sweeney. Not to be overlooked in the events of the week was the cleverly arranged dinner party given by Miss Regina Frank and Miss Viola Bryson at the Colonnades, near Alexandria, in honor of Miss Grace Woody and Miss Nancy Scramlin, who will sail Friday from New York for an extended trip abroad. Another lovely affair was the informal tea at which President and Mrs. L. A. Pittenger of Ball State College entertained at the college in honor of faculty members and administrative officials.

NEVERTHELESS, there is a decided lag in social activity, due to the general exodus which has rather depleted the ranks of society. For those who have so far remained at home., this is undoubtedly the time of year for picnics and other outdoor activities and social gatherings. This has been particularly evidenced in the attendance at the Delaware Country Club during the past week. Since the days were somewhat cooler, the golf course provided a popular retreat for those who desire to pursue the sport, and during the warmer days the club pool as well as the swimming pools in other parts of the city were filled to capacity. There's nothing like a gay informal out-of-door party to keep the younger social set entertained, and recent observations reveal that the older social contingent also seems quite pleased at the prospect of a picnic or out-of-door gathering. However, in this modern day and age, like other entertainments and diversions as well as customs and all the other things that are constantly changing, picnics too have taken on a new aspect. Rather than loading up the car with all the necessary equipment for carrying out the carefully pre-arranged plans and driving to a park or trying to find a suitable spot in someone's woods, one simply has to carry the needed articles to the improvised picnic grounds in his own back yard. The building of grills and ovens for private use has become more and more popular, and serves constantly as a stimulus for numerous entertainments at which the family, and friends may enjoy frequent hamburger and steak frys without all the trouble and bother of the previous method.

Muncie Horse Show Lauded By Magazine

The July issue of the "Hoosier Equestrian," monthly publication of the Indiana Saddle Horse Association, commends highly the eighth annual Muncie Fair Horse Show held last month at the Muncie fairgrounds. Reports of other shows in the magazine reveal that the Muncie show eclipsed others in the number of horses entered, there being 200 horses in the local chose, 117 in one at Indianapolis, and 88 in the Huntington, W. Va., show.

The article says in part: "Though Muncie, in her advance publicity, modestly offered nothing more than good stabling, a good ring and good old Hoosier hospitality, horses from far and near taxed the capacity of the barns at the Delaware County fairgrounds. The horse attendance of around 200 head, representing the larger stables of saddle horses and jumpers from Ohio, Kentucky and Illinois, as well as Indiana was unprecedented in Muncie Horse Show history.

"The show, though under the direction of the fair board of which Mr. E. Arthur Ball is president, was held as an entirely separate unit from the fair and whoever was responsible for the happy thought may feel deeply gratified with the result for the saddle horses alone filled all available stall space that on occasions was necessarily split between saddle and harness horses.

"To Mr. Ball, Mr. Frank Hanley, show committee chairmen, Mr. Seward B. Price, secretary and show manager, and the many tireless workers on the committee, Indiana is indebted for one of the finest outdoor social and sports events of the 1939 season and the favorable impression created through this year's event will be reflected in similar affairs for years to come."
