- There is no Walling Avenue on modern maps between 17th and 18th streets. There is a Walling avenue running north and South between 13th and 14th Streets. The street is located between S. Mock Avenue on the east and S. Brotherton on the west.

- If that walling would be extended southward, it would be in the vicinity of Mabel's house. It would have gone between Mabel's and Clarence's Houses and to the east side of the Church.

Mom got a call from one of grandma's neighbors that they were concerned about her and they had looked in her window and she was laying on the floor of her bedroom - Mom called me and I drove us to grandma's house. When we got there the neighbors were standing outside - I tried the door and it was locked from the inside - I kicked open the door and found grandma laying on the bedroom floor and she was very scared - I told someone to call for an ambulance - no 911 yet - We followed the ambulance to Ball Memorial Hospital and stayed until after they had admitted her. Later I went back to her house and fixed the door.

I remember that Shirley and I would visit her at the hospital and she was unable to speak and when she tried it was so slurred you could not understand her. I would read to her and she seemed to enjoy that.

Her room was 517-1 and she was next to a window.
