Hobbies Have Place in Display of Students' Work.

That school today is an interesting place to be will be the average adult's opinion after he sees the educational exhibit which opened last night at the fieldhouse on North Walnut street. How the learning of the three R's has been made fascinating for the child who is at all eager to learn is demonstrated in all the exhibits.

Natural science has made one of the biggest changes in curriculum in schools in the past several years, and its exhibit attracts attention. The study has been integrated through-Hobbies have their house now, one boy has collected and mounted the skulls of several birds and animals, neatly too.
